The Edited by Gerard Carruthers Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series is a collection of poetry anthologies that feature the works of some of the most famous poets in the English language.

The series was founded in 1994 by Gerard Carruthers, a former professor of English at the University of California, Berkeley. Carruthers' goal was to create a series of affordable, high-quality poetry anthologies that would be accessible to a wide range of readers.

The Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series has been praised for its high editorial standards and its commitment to diversity. The anthologies in the series feature a wide range of poets, from classic authors such as William Shakespeare and John Milton to contemporary poets such as Billy Collins and Louise Glück.

The Edited by Gerard Carruthers Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series is a valuable resource for anyone who loves poetry. The anthologies in the series offer a comprehensive overview of the history of English poetry, and they provide a great way to discover new poets.

The Series

The Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series currently consists of over 100 volumes. Each volume is dedicated to a single poet or group of poets. The anthologies in the series are organized chronologically, so readers can trace the development of English poetry from the Middle Ages to the present day.

The anthologies in the Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series are typically around 200 pages long. They include a brief by the editor, as well as a selection of the poet's most famous poems.

The Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series is published by Alfred A. Knopf, Inc. The books are available in paperback and hardcover. The paperback editions are affordable, making them a great option for students and casual readers. The hardcover editions are more expensive, but they are a beautiful addition to any library.

The Editor

Gerard Carruthers was a professor of English at the University of California, Berkeley for over 30 years. He is the author of several books on poetry, including "The Modernists" and "The Art of Poetry." Carruthers is also the founder and editor of the Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series.

Carruthers is a passionate advocate for poetry. He believes that poetry is a powerful form of art that can change the way we see the world. Carruthers' commitment to poetry is evident in the Everyman Library Pocket Poets Series. The anthologies in the series are carefully curated and edited, and they offer a comprehensive overview of the history of English poetry.
