Interview with Jenna Torres

I recently had the opportunity to interview Jenna Torres about her debut novel, In Between Breaths. Here is what she had to say:

Q: What inspired you to write In Between Breaths?

Jenna Torres: I was inspired to write In Between Breaths by my own experiences with grief and loss. I lost my sister to cancer when I was 16 years old, and her death had a profound impact on me.

I wanted to write a novel that would explore the complexities of grief and loss, and how it can affect our relationships with others. I also wanted to write a story about the power of love and resilience, and how it can help us to heal and move on.

Q: What do you hope readers will take away from your novel?

Jenna Torres: I hope that readers will take away a greater understanding of the complexities of grief and loss. I also hope that they will be inspired by the power of love and resilience, and how it can help us to heal and move on.

I also hope that readers will come to a greater understanding of the LGBTQ+ experience. In Between Breaths is a story about two young women who fall in love, and I hope that it will help to normalize LGBTQ+ relationships.

Q: What advice would you give to aspiring writers?

Jenna Torres: My advice to aspiring writers is to write about what you know and what you are passionate about. Don't be afraid to write about your own experiences, and don't be afraid to be honest and vulnerable in your writing.

Also, don't give up on your dreams. Writing a novel is a lot of work, but it is also an incredibly rewarding experience. If you have a story to tell, don't give up on it. Keep writing, and keep believing in yourself.
